

Translations that mean business.™

We help businesses translate successfully.

Whether you are a technical writer, HR professional, marketer or product engineer, you need translated documents that produce the intended results. International Language Services translates even your most complicated or technical text by applying native-speaker language skills and industry-specific knowledge. The result? Documents that communicate precisely and effectively. Projects that help you be successful. Translations that mean business.™

With hundreds of available translation specialists, International Language Services delivers business translations that work — from instruction manuals to marketing materials and from patents to patient consent forms. You can be confident that your translations communicate as accurately and effectively as your original documents.

STANDING OUT IN THE TRANSLATION SERVICES CROWD

When you need translations, you usually need them now. That means it's easier to handle your project by doing what's familiar — probably turning to internal staff or using a service company you've called before.

But take a minute to think about your last translation project:

- Was your project manager competent and committed to the project?
- Was the translation team responsive and timely?
- Did the translator provide a quality translation with dogged attention to detail?
- Was your project easily translated into multiple languages simultaneously?
- Did the translator demonstrate command of the target language along with industry expertise?
- What about the customer service? Was your translation company willing to go the extra mile for you?

If you want to be able to answer “yes” to all of these questions about your next translation project, entrust it to International Language Services. With a proven reputation for over 25 years, ILS brings you consistent quality translations and proven accuracy from expert translators who understand your subject matter. Our project managers' top priority is your satisfaction and the effectiveness of your translation. ILS is dedicated to seeing you achieve the results you had in mind for your translated document.

Delivering quality translations requires a proven process.

International Language Services is ISO 9001:2000 certified — which assures you that we consistently employ our project management process. What does this mean for your projects? It means you receive accurate translations, on time and to your specifications, with the highest level of customer service. Not only does ILS provide translation services, but we also offer expert proofreading, editing, formatting and desktop publishing. Translations are completed and delivered with maximum document security without compromising speed and quality.

MANAGING CONTENT FOR MAXIMUM EFFECTIVENESS AND CONSISTENCY

International Language Services uses state-of-the-art content management and translation memory software, which helps us maintain consistency within individual documents and between projects. The software includes:

- A multilingual glossary builder
- Style guidelines specific to your project types

Our Translation Environment Tool (TEnt) aids the human translation effort by storing matching source and target language segments in a client-specific database for re-use in future projects.

The result is consistency within and between translated documents and easier content updates. This tool integrates seamlessly with the front-end applications commonly used by the translation team, as well as tagged formats such as HTML, SGML, XML and ASP.

In short: TEnt saves you time and money when you use ILS for multiple translations.

SERVICES

- Translation
- Editing and proofing
- Localization
- Formatting
- Project management
- Content management
- Quality control
- Telephone interpreting

Visit www.ilstranslations.com today or call 952•934•5678 for a quote on your translation project.

About International Language Services

International Language Services, Inc., is a multi-language translation, localization and formatting company that has been delivering on-time and accurate translations to businesses since 1982. ILS provides hands-on project management team support and translators with a wide range of industry-specific knowledge. Our dedicated staff members offer the highest levels of individual attention and service, and are committed to exceeding your expectations. With translation memory software, ISO certification and access to translators for any language and business application, ILS consistently produces translated documents that generate intended results.

For more information on International Language Services' capabilities and clients, please visit our Web site at www.ilstranslations.com

Phone: 952•934•5678

Toll-free: 800•225•8964

Fax: 952•934•4543

Email: info@ilstranslations.com

www.ilstranslations.com

Translations that mean business.™